THE HEN CALLED UPON ME FOR HELP

After the long sessions of one meeting after another, we were asked to take a break for one day. Our principle house in Nairobi is surrounded by tall trees where an eagle has a nest with young chicks. It looks the chicks were very hungry, making noise every time; calling for food and for more food.

The previous day, the hen of Father Superior hatched 12 chicks which has brought a lot of excitement. After spending 21 days incubating her eggs, mother hen was very hungry, she needed to find food as soon as possible and to take out her brood to show them around. However, it was a dangerous territory with eagles hovering in the trees laying ambush to find food for their hungry chicks too. Mother hen was clever she invited me to take watch over her as she showed the new family around and tried to find food for herself. Since hens have better eye sight than human beings, every time she sensed danger she made noise to call me for support and protection. So I spent the day scaring away the eagle which I'm sure was very angry with me.

The two mothers were engaged in a serious battle which called for great responsibilities. If the eagle did not find food that day, her chicks starved to near death. As I sat there with my eyes everywhere in the trees, I was challenged to ask myself, 'who do I turn to and who do I put my trust in when there is danger?'

The hen was so pleased have someone that day watching over her and her chicks. How much more happy we should be to know that in spite of the dangers hovering above us, God is with us always keeping an eye on us! Although I kept an eye on the hen with her 12 chicks, I did not take the danger away, the eagle was still in the sky. In the same way while God keeps watch over us, he does not take temptations and dangers away, that is why it is important to pray all the time and to endeavour to remain in good relationship with Him.

As dusk fell over Nairobi that day, I was so pleased that mother hen retired with all her brood in her possession. It could be the reason why Jesus rightly said that finding the lost sheep or the lost drachma gave much joy because it meant that the number was complete.

Sometimes it is amazing to see how nature shows that it has a sense of duty, responsibility and accountability. The mother eagle showed that she had the responsibility to find food for her chicks even if this would entail stealing the chicks of the hen, while the Mother hen showed that she had the responsibility to protect everyone of her brood from hungry eagles.

That is what responsibility is; a constant endeavour to do what is expected of us. Remember to call on the intervention of God above when you need protection just as the hen did. But also don't give up trying because despite the obstacles God finally gives the answer. So the eagle kept on trying again and again.

Thought on marriage: Married Love

This love is above all fully human, a compound of sense and spirit. It is not, then, merely a question of natural instinct or emotional drive. It is also, and above all, an act of the free will, whose trust is such that it is meant not only to survive the joys and sorrows of daily life, but also to grow, so that husband and wife become in a way one heart and one soul, and together attain their human fulfilment.

Matters of Importance

Volunteers for Catechetical Instruction: I'm pleased to let you know that following my request to you to help with catechetical ministry in our parish, Miss Veronica Carroll, Mr. and Mrs James/ Anne Mapuranga, and Mrs Celia, have presented to me their names with the intention of teaching catechism in our parish.
